

NATURAL

Organics, Our World, and Your Family

Organic food is one of the fastest expanding food categories. Since 2003, the number of Americans buying organics has more than doubled.*

Why are so many consumers choosing organics?

- A Commitment to Health and Wellness.

This is a growing concern for many people, and one of the best ways to stay healthy is to eat more fruits and vegetables. Organics are naturally good for you!

- No Synthetic Herbicides or Pesticides.

Since organics are grown without the use of synthetic herbicides and pesticides, many people prefer organics to minimize the impact on our earth.

- Make a Difference and Help Our World.

The choices we make can have a real impact on our world, from the cars we drive to the foods we eat. Many consumers choose to buy organics to support growers in their communities and to protect our planet for future generations.

Make organics a part of your life, and join the generations of people on the path to better health and wellness.

CARING

Our Commitment, Our Service, and Our World

At Our World™ Organics, caring for our families and our earth go hand-in-hand. Our mission is founded on three key principles:

Caring for Our World

As caretakers of our planet, our growers are dedicated to organic farming and sustainable practices. No synthetic herbicides or pesticides. Just 100% nature.

Caring for Our Produce

Our produce is nurtured by the sun, earth and water, then harvested with care and shipped to market at the peak of freshness.

Caring for Our Families

Fruits and vegetables are an important part of a healthy diet, and health and wellness are a priority to a growing number of people. We are committed to delivering the freshest produce to your table and providing the natural nutrients needed for a healthy lifestyle.

COMMITMENT

Our World™ Organics Sustainability Pledge

At Our World™ Organics, we work with local and regional organic growers to promote sustainable organic practices.

Our efforts include:

- Promotion of sustainable farming methods
- Food safety protocols
- Reduction of transport time and distance between grower and consumer
- Expansion of organic farming acreage

Supporting Sustainable Agriculture

Achieving these sustainability goals requires the dedication of people and organizations committed to growing organics. To support their efforts, we're donating a portion of our net profits to organizations that employ sustainable agricultural practices.
